Practice Overview

Edmund Crawley was called to the Bar in 2023 and became a tenant at Keating Chambers in 2024 following the successful completion of his pupillage.

Edmund is developing a broad and busy practice across Chambers' specialisms in both domestic and international cases, both as sole counsel and as junior counsel within teams. During his pupillage Edmund's work encompassed a wide variety of practice areas, including construction, engineering, professional negligence, marine and off-shore, and planning. He has assisted on both contentious and advisory matters within these fields, including trial preparation for TCC hearings, and has been instructed to draft statements of case in his own right. His work has also covered a range of alternative dispute resolution, including adjudication and arbitration (including ADCCAC and CIMAR rules).

Before starting coming to the Bar, Edmund spent a year working as a Judicial Assistant for Lord Justice Phillips and the Lady Chief Justice Carr in the Court of Appeal. Edmund also spent several months working for Scotia Group, an international thinktank formed to provide proposals and strategies for parties at COP26. Edmund was a Working Group Leader for a team which developed a strategy for Japan's Minister of Economy.

Edmund also previously worked as an intern in the Legal Policy and Research Unit of the International Bar Association, during which time he did research on the UN Guiding Principles on Business Human Rights and drafted a speech for the president of the IBA.

Edmund accepts instructions to advise, draft pleadings and represent clients in relation to a broad range of commercial matters, with an emphasis upon construction, engineering, professional negligence and energy disputes.
